MedEd Chat @MedEdChat9 hours ago

Topic 1: How is coaching different from mentoring or advising? #MedEdChat #meded

Stacey VanVliet @VanvlietStacey9 hours ago

For me, coaching helps student find best self, answer own questions rather than me answering for them #T1 #mededchat

MedEd Chat @MedEdChat8 hours ago

@VanvlietStacey T1 Do you feel that mentors or advisors find answers for learners? #mededchat

Gary Beck Dallaghan @GLBDallaghan8 hours ago

T1 From my basic understanding, coaching is directed toward a specific need whereas advising and mentoring are long-term commitments #mededchat

@Alliance4ClinEd T2. Not sure enough coaching happens in clinical education-at least for medical students as they see so many different residents and attendings. For residents, having a coach who can guide in improving performance could be good. #MedEdchat

Gary Beck Dallaghan @GLBDallaghan8 hours ago

@BJBRoman @MedEdChat @JournalofGME T2 What about coaching failures? I'm sure they occur....what then? #mededchat

Alliance4ClinEd @Alliance4ClinEd8 hours ago
