@Alliance4ClinEd @MedEdChat #mededchat the context may vary across the departments, across the institutions, and across the nations. The context is important especially in low resource settings. I have seen schools using curriculum which is buy-in from other schools which didn't work all the time #meded

Nicole Winston @MCGpharmacprof 10 hours ago

@GLBDallaghan @DrTashaWyatt I have come to realize that we need context to interpret findings appropriately and deeply. It provides the spices to research rather than stripping it to scales and numbers. It helps us make sense of messy topics as well. #MedEdChat

Gary Beck Dallaghan @GLBDallaghan 9 hours ago

@DrTashaWyatt That is such a cool and perplexing aspect of context that is often overlooked. I have commented for years about how alleged competence is context-dependent....but so few people got it. #mededchat

Tasha Wyatt @DrTashaWyatt 9 hours ago

@MedEdChat @carens8892 Interesting thought! I think what researchers should be looking at is why activities change or at least we perceive change. This helps us better map contextual differences in the same activity. #mededchat

@carens8892 @PedsEndoChick @SSawning @MedEdChat There is push from qualitative researchers in #meded to do so, but I think we could do an even better job. For me, it begs the question of what we are trying to accomplish if we are not trying to include context in our #meded research. #mededchat

@DrTashaWyatt @carens8892 @PedsEndoChick @SSawning @MedEdChat Wouldn't you agree that there is an assumption that contexts are interchangeable? Seems to me that this is an issue when we think performing a procedure in one setting is identical to another. #MedEdChat
